

This document is not a survey deliverable. It contains no measurements and describes no real site.

The Ambaji Corridor site exists in this portal for one purpose: to prove that a signed in client can reach their own data and nothing else. Tenant filtering happens in SQL, and a request for another client's site answers 404 rather than 403, so an id is never confirmed.

This file replaced a copy of another client's topographic survey report. That copy was wrong on both counts: it placed one client's real deliverable inside another client's folder, and because the bytes were identical it would have hidden exactly the failure this fixture is meant to catch. A fixture has to be recognisable to be worth having.

If you are a real Sudaan Geo-Analytics client and this document appeared under your account, please tell us. It means a site was published to the wrong client, and we would want to know immediately.
